

AN EXCLUSIVE TOLFIN SURVEY

LI KA SHING DOES NOT ALWAYS HIT PAY DIRT; WOULD YOU BE HAPPY WITH THESE RESULTS ?

Mr Li Ka Shing (), one of the world's richest men, invested heavily in shares, listed on The Stock Exchange of Hongkong Ltd, during the 2005 calendar year.

The 15 publicly listed companies, chosen by the Great Man or by minions, under his direct or indirect command, were eclectic and covered a broad spectrum, from an airline, to a watch manufacturer, to a shipping company, to a property developer, to a paint manufacturer, to one of the world's largest producers of beer.

In each of the 15 companies, identified by TOLFIN() (The Computerised Online Financial Intelligence Service and Web-Based, Credit-Checking Provider), Mr Li Ka Shing's investments were less than 15 percent of the Issued and Fully Paid-Up Share Capital of the target entity.

However, he appears not to have done very well, according to the survey, conducted by TOLFIN.

Using the Li Ka Shing Unity Holdings Ltd as the chosen corporate 'vehicle' for his investments, Mr Li Ka Shing, during calendar 2005, took minority positions in the following companies, all of which are

Conclusion:

From TOLFIN's statistics, it is clear that Mr Li Ka Shing's investment advisors are hitting winners about 53 percent of the time, only.

At least, that was the case in respect of the 2005 calendar year.

One wonders whether or not the Great Man considers this a satisfactory result?

One consideration that ... CLICK TO ORDER FULL ARTICLE
